ABOUT

Noe Navarro is a Costa Rican electric guitarist and singer-songwriter that blends Indie Latin American Rock and Afro rhythms with a unique, soulful sound. Her expressive guitar sound and captivating voice define her style, creating an enchanting atmosphere that draws listeners in. Her poetic songs tell personal stories and invites listeners to question the hegemonic structures of our society through the lens of introspection. Her debut EP "Luna Negra" showcases the diverse musical influences that shape her as an artist. Her music are characterized by electric guitar, jazz-influenced harmonies and sweet vocals.

Her debut solo album, Luna Negra, showcases the diverse musical influences that shape her as an artist and singer-songwriter.

With a wide experience as a lead guitarist for women owned artistic projects like Nakury, Valeria Atkeys, Nou Red, and The Beagirls; Noe Navarro has built a strong foundation in the Costa Rican music scene. Now based in Seattle, she aims to connect with local independent artists and build new musical relations to work towards the promotion and amplification of women and latin artists.

In 2026 she will release "Luna Negra Deluxe" her first LP with unpublished songs.

LUNA NEGRA

Luna Negra is the captivating EP by Costa Rican artist Noe Navarro, blending genres such as bolero, funk, Cuban son, and latin rock. With three tracks that explore the richness of her roots and her creative versatility, Luna Negra offers a unique sonic experience.

The first single, Rosa y Ruiseñor, is a contemporary bolero that pays tribute to Noe's grandparents, evoking the nostalgia of the Latin Music from the 1950s with minimalist acoustic instrumentation. On the other hand, the single Luna Negra blends rock, funk, and Cuban son to explore the Afro-Latin influence in music, inviting listeners to dance in the dark and embrace their roots.

With this EP, Noe Navarro showcases her ability to blend classic and modern elements, creating a vibrant work that celebrates Latin identity and the power of music.
